

Fulfilling the Great Commission...

September 5, 2001

To Whom It May Concern:

When our church was faced with an immediate need for additional space for Christian education, I consulted with several modular building companies. The decision to do business with Garry Cain of Rose Office Systems was based not only upon the product and its pricing, but upon his commitment and integrity.

We acquired two 28' x 56' units in August 2000. Garry worked with me to assure that our specific design needs were satisfied. One of our units was configured with four classrooms, the other with two large multipurpose rooms. While the physical installation of the units was done in a very tight space, Garry assured me that it would be done to our satisfaction--and it was. Later, after both units had experienced some damage after some severe weather, Garry did whatever it took to get all necessary repairs done. He even had factory representatives come here to see and correct some matters. Although it has been more than a year since the installation of our units, Garry remains responsive to any of our concerns. He has a quality product, but he adds unparalleled commitment to customer satisfaction.

I recommend Garry Cain and Rose Office Systems without reservation. I welcome any personal inquiries and on-site inspection visits by appointment.

Sincerely,

Alan Reid
